ABOUT

As we all know, healthy soils are the basis of any sustainable farming system. They are the basis of healthy plants and thereby for healthy people. That's the reason why healthy soils are also at the center of the Best4Soil network, which we established three years ago. Since then, we have created videos, factsheets and tools all around the issues of soil health, soil borne diseases, nematodes and crop rotation. All that information is already available in 22 languages — for free!

And now, close to the end of the project period, we are going to sum up all our results in one big online conference at the 16th of February 2022. And you can take part free of charge, all expenses are covered by the project! You will profit from valuable talks about soil health and hands-on experiences from soil experts of different EU countries.

Reserve your free ticket now, spread the news and also invite your friends and colleagues! For registration just click on the following link and go to the website of our meeting platform: <https://hopin.com/events/best4soilconference>
